How is AFWA different?

AFWA members range from students and young professionals to experienced career women and retirees. Members work in public accounting, government, non-profit, and corporate accounting, they are CPAs, EAs, CMAs, CFPs, and more. And many members are just beginning their studies for advanced certifications.

AFWA members can view a clear path to leadership. Members can become involved in their local chapters, on National Committees, or with The Foundation of AFWA. If they aspire to increase leadership potential, AFWA makes that possible.

In addition to professional continuing education presentations, members get together for wine tastings, golf lessons, and painting sessions. Because we believe networking should be fun! And when you unwind in a casual non-intimidating setting, you can connect beyond "who do you work for?" and "what do you do?"
